SECTION III: NARRATIVE

BILL SUMMARY

Synopsis:

SJM3 asks the PED to explore ways to reinstate and support middle school family and consumer sciences programs.

FISCAL IMPLICATIONS

There is no appropriation with this joint memorial.

SIGNIFICANT ISSUES

Although school family and consumer sciences programs are not required at middle or high school, the course code manual from PED currently includes several courses considered family and consumer sciences education. Those courses are available to any school district and state charter school for use in middle school grades. Course offerings are decided at the local level.

The PED's New Mexico Career Cluster Guide also includes Human Services as a high school pathway. These courses are offered under career technical education.
