NEW MEXICO TRIVIA!!!!

ROUND 1

FUN ACTIVITY

A major event occurred near Alamogordo in 1945.

What was it?

FUN ACTIVITY

Answer:

First atomic device exploded

The Manhattan Project was the World War II program to develop an atomic bomb. Much of the work was conducted at Los Alamos, New Mexico, though other important parts of the project were developed in Tennessee, Washington State and elsewhere. The site of the first detonation, known as Trinity Site, is located on the White Sands Test Range. It may be visited on only two days each year, one each in April and October.

FUN ACTIVITY

What vegetable is Hatch, New Mexico famous for?

FUN ACTIVITY

Answer: Green Chile

Every year, Hatch has their annual Green Chile Festival.

FUN ACTIVITY

The eastern border of New Mexico has an irregularity in the northern corner with Oklahoma. How many miles further east is New Mexico's eastern border with Oklahoma compared to Texas?

FUN ACTIVITY

Answer: About 2 miles

There's an interesting story here. When Texas was being surveyed, its western border with New Mexico was to be the 103rd meridian. Well, Texan surveyors headed by John H. Clark started from the south and north, and didn't meet in the middle. They settled what they thought was the 103rd meridian and that became the border.

In 1911 this error was realized. It was found that they were off by about two miles west at Texas's northern border with Oklahoma, but the border was confirmed by the United States Congress anyway.
